Jared W. Slater is an Associate in ECJ's Litigation and Employment Departments.

Jared's practice focuses on defending labor and employment actions, including claims for wage and hour violations, harassment, and discrimination both in the individual and class action arenas. He also devotes a significant portion of his practice to defending professionals whose former clients bring claims against them.

Prior to joining ECJ, Jared obtained complete defense verdicts at trial and favorable results on dispositive motions and in mediations. In doing so, his clients have lauded him for his personal approach to each of their cases. Jared has also gained substantial trial experience defending legal malpractice, employment and personal injury actions.
