Siobhan C. Amin is an Associate in the Litigation Department.

Siobhan has substantial experience in civil litigation in both state and federal courts. Siobhan also has experience in real estate litigation, business and partnership disputes, and first amendment-related litigation. She has litigated cases on behalf of multinational corporations, small businesses, individuals, property owners and landlords. Siobhan takes an efficient and straightforward approach to each case with careful attention to detail, strategy and the ultimate needs of each client.

During law school, Siobhan served as an extern for the Honorable Justice H. Walter Croskey of the California Court of Appeal.

Siobhan has served as an intern in the appellate chambers of two UN-operated international criminal tribunals: the Khmer Rouge Tribunal in Phnom Penh, Cambodia, and the Special Tribunal for Lebanon in The Hague, Netherlands.

Siobhan is a volunteer for the Venice Citation Clinic, which assists homeless individuals with their defense to minor “quality of life” infractions they receive living on the streets of Los Angeles. In addition, she is active in the Iranian-American community, including her membership on the Board of the National Iranian American Council.
